CHICAGO VIEWS AIR PARADE

PLANES SWOOP OVER METROPOLIS; MOCK WARFARE IS STAGED

Show Awes Thousands Who Watch Units In Maneuvers

CHICAGO, May 21.—Chicago today was treated to a roaring exhibition of aerial strength by the war birds of the United States Army.

With the lake front of the metropolitan area all the way from Evanston to Gary, Ind., as their theater, more than 650 planes demonstrated wherein aviation excels as a means of attack or defense.

The mere parading of the ships against an azure blue sky was stupendous. More awe-inspiring, however, was the mock warfare that followed in the vicinity of the navy pier.

The maneuvers were of a scale undreamed of by the Wright brothers the day they launched their crude contraption at Kittyhawk, N. C. shortly after the turn of the century. They were the greatest of their kind in world history.

Hundreds of thousands of landed Chicagoans and suburbanites gazed skyward as the United States Army provisional first air division, with a total strength of 672 ships, took part in the review.

Today's maneuvers represented the first concentration of the army air service before the fleet proceeds to the Atlantic seaboard to meet a mythical national foe.

As the time for the aerial program neared, planes began to dot the skies above the five airports at which they were quartered after their arrival from Dayton and Cleveland, O.

Shadows of the quick little pursuit ships and of the massive bombers played tag on the ground below as they maneuvered into their designated positions for the review.

The day was started off with a parade, nearly twenty miles in length from the first ship to the last, which roared down the shore of Lake Michigan from the northern suburb of Evanston.

Shortly after the planes passed in review above Navy Pier, three units of the division staged their mock combat.

PRESIDENT TO BE OHIO GUEST

State Reception To Honor Hoover

COLUMBUS, O., May 21.—Plans for an elaborate reception in Ohio's Capitol Building for President and Mrs. Herbert Hoover during their visit to the state June 16 for the dedication of the Harding Memorial tomb at Marion were begun here today following their acceptance of an invitation through Lawrence Richey, the president's secretary.

The reception will be public and will be the first of such ever accorded a president in this state. It will be held following Mr. Hoover's review of a parade of Civil War veterans attending the annual G. A. R. encampment.

President and Mrs. Hoover, accompanied by the chief executive's customary corps of military and naval aides and secret service men, will come here from Marion in the presidential train. They will arrive late in the afternoon.

FIRESTONE'S SON RECKLESS DRIVER

RED BANK, N. J., May 21.—Leonard Firestone, son of Harvey Firestone, tire king of Akron, was free on $10 bail today following his arrest on a charge of reckless driving. "Len," who is a student at Princeton and is well-known as a polo player, must explain to the authorities at Princeton why he was arrested and why he was driving a car. There is a strict rule at the university against students owning or operating cars.

After giving his age as 21 and home as Akron, O., young Firestone posted $10 at the police court here and left.

CUBAN REVOLTS ARE REPORTED

HAVANA, May 21.—Revolutionary movements have broken out in two towns in the interior of Cuba and are threatening elsewhere, according to dispatches received here today.

Troops were called out to quell insurrectionary movements in Manzanillo and Jiguaní, the dispatches said. News from the disordered area failed to mention whether any casualties occurred.

STATE CLAIMS PLOT TO ESCAPE ACTUATED PEN HALOCAUST LAST YEAR

BEAUTY IS FREED

DELAY RESUMPTION OF RELATIONS WITH SPAIN AND HOLY SEE

New Government Is Not Recognized By Vatican

MADRID, May 21.—Resumption of diplomatic relations between Spain and the Vatican will be delayed until a reply to the protest of the Papal Nuncio over the destruction of church property in the recent riots is filed, it was learned here today.

The provisional Republican government announced that Luis Zeta, the Spanish ambassador, will not present his credentials at the Holy See until the answer is made.

However, it was said that any official business to be transacted, such as the presentation of the protest note, will be carried on with the present authorities here.

The government confirmed the statement made by Papal officials at the Vatican City that the Republican government is not recognized by the Holy See.

Two reasons were offered for the lack of action, the fact that King Alfonso had not abdicated, but merely left the country to await developments and that Spain itself will not officially become a Republic until the cortes meets next month.

The government expected to receive a resolution adopted by the City Council of Barcelona asking that the Jesuits be expelled from the country. The resolution, which followed similar action by the Gijon Council, passed by a vote of thirty to eleven. Officials here refrained from commenting on the resolution.

ACQUIT BEAUTY OF CHARGE OF MURDER

NICE, France, May 21.—For the first time in more than forty days her two young children today greeted with joyous laughter their beautiful young mother, Mrs. Charlotte Nixon-Nirdlinger.

Mrs. Nixon-Nirdlinger was acquitted yesterday, after the most dramatic trial ever held on the Riviera, of charges of "murdering with provocation" her husband, Fred G. Nixon-Nirdlinger, Philadelphia theater owner.

Mrs. James Nash, of Overland Park, Mo., who hurried across the ocean to her daughter's defense, said they would go back to America as soon as possible, so Charlotte may try to forget.

By her acquittal, Mrs. Nixon-

Nirdlinger is entitled to her Nixon-Nirdlinger's estate.

FALLS TO DEATH

ZANESVILLE, O., May 21.—A twelve-foot fall through an elevator shaft was blamed today for the death of Daniel Head, 70-year-old carpenter. Head was walking through an alley when he fell under a guard gate and into the shaft.

KILLED BY WIFE

First Witnesses In Grate Case Take Stand Thursday

COLUMBUS, O., May 21.—State's attorneys today launched an attempt to prove that the Ohio Penitentiary fire was started as a part of a mammoth escape plot.

Prosecutor Donald J. Hoskins prepared to introduce testimony to show that Clinton Grate, the 31-year-old prisoner charged with starting the holocaust, "intended among other things to escape and he and his accomplices intended to kill on their road out."

Questioning of witnesses in the trial for Grate, who is charged with first degree murder, opened in earnest today after a visit of the jury to the scene of the Easter Monday fire yesterday afternoon.

Charges by the state that Grate and Hugh Gibbons, 36-year-old prisoner also under indictment for murder in connection with the fire and the death of 322 convicts, started the fire in an attempt to escape, followed declarations by defense lawyers that the fire and loss of life were due to defective wiring, "criminal negligence," and "lack of leadership."

The testimony will show that Grate was ready to leave the pen that night," Hoskins asserted in his opening statements.

Hoskins declared he will prove that the two men set the "fuse" and that Grate "was absolutely sure it would go off."

Seeking to prove their charge that defective wiring was at fault, defense attorneys said "they had three short circuits in the cell block on three occasions the day of the fire," adding that "the insulation on those wires was rotten."

RETAIL FOOD DROPS SLIGHTLY IN PRICE SAYS APRIL REPORT

Butter Leads Price Decline; Coffee Is Listed Next

WASHINGTON, May 21.—Retail food prices dropped about 2 per cent in April from March prices. Since April a year ago the decrease has amounted to 18 per cent, the Bureau of Labor statistics announced today.

Butter, with a decrease of 6 per cent, topped the list of thirty-four food articles that declined in price during the month. Coffee declined 5 per cent, fresh eggs and cornmeal, 4 per cent, plate beef, oleomargarine, cheese, bread, flower, navy beans, pork and beans, canned corn, tomatoes and peas, and bananas, 3 per cent; rib and chuck roast, sliced ham, milk, macaroni, rice, sugar and prunes, 2 per cent; sirloin and round steak, sliced bacon, canned salmon, evaporated milk, rolled oats, tea and raisins, 1 per cent.

Six articles increased in price, with potatoes, at 4 per cent, topping the list. Onions increased 3 per cent; hens and oranges, 2 per cent; pork chops and leg of lamb, 1 per cent.

During the month all of the one cities from which prices were received showed decreases in the average cost of food as follows:

CONFICTING REASONS GIVEN FOR SUICIDE

NEW YORK, May 21.—Life's irony, which his caustic pen had portrayed to bring him international fame, prodded Ralph Barton's troubled spirit today.

Even though before he killed himself yesterday in his New York penthouse, the noted artist took the trouble to meticulously write a long message explaining his suicide, various reasons were advanced today as to his motive.

In his long note Barton wrote of his grief in losing Carlotta Monterey, "the only woman I ever loved," who divorced him and later married Eugene O'Neill, the playwright. He said she would "understand what my malady was" and finally, he wrote, if the "gossip" insist on more, "let it be a dentist's appointment or lack of cash."

So they said today Barton shot himself because of unreturned love, because he was ill, because he was penniless.

Some said he was driven to death because he could not get Carlotta Monterey and it was him he had hoped to marry the heiress.

Barton denied his brother was without funds. He said a bank book found in the penthouse showed the artist "had thousands" on deposit. He had recently sold his home in France, the brother said.

YOUTH SLAIN, THREE WOMEN ARE INJURED

MARTIAL STATIC REVEALED

SAN DIEGO, May 21.—Running amuck with a revolver, a man, who San Diego sheriff's officers said was Ralph Sinohui, 25, today shot and killed Eddie Gallardo, 19, and wounded three women so seriously they may die.

The shooting occurred at Escondido, near here.

Gallardo was killed in front of his home after which Sinohui, according to Sheriff Ed Cooper, fired into the Gallardo home, wounding Gallardo's sisters, Laura, 15, and Lupe, 13.

Sinohui then fired into the home of his mother-in-law, Mrs. Louise Mazon, 45.

Spencer died almost instantly with a bullet through his heart, shot by a gunman in the politician's private office.

Crawford lived for four hours while surgeons fought vainly for his life with operations and blood transfusions.

Police arrested a suspect a few minutes after Crawford's death but did not disclose his name.

Mrs. Spencer's first statement on the death of her husband was: "I know who killed my husband. You know who killed him as well as I do," she told newspaper reporters.

"Herbert had only one enemy in the world. That man controls the saloons, and resorts in Los Angeles."

For twenty years, Spencer had been a police reporter in Los Angeles, becoming city editor of the Los Angeles Evening Express.

Recently he bought part of the "Critic of Critics" a liberal magazine and began a campaign against gamblers, gamblers and racketeers in Los Angeles and Hollywood, with Frederick Schindler, part owner of the magazine, doing the writing on information furnished by Spencer. He was said to have more sources of information than any reporter in the city.

The editors of the magazine had been investigating gambling interests that have entrenched themselves in Los Angeles and Hollywood and Spencer had threatened to expose "Al Capone of Los Angeles" in the current issue of his magazine.

Police believe that both men were marked for death and "put on the spot" by powerful underworld interests who feared the forthcoming exposé.

That Spencer's life had been threatened was revealed in the magazine recently. In its columns the following item appeared:

NEWSPAPERMAN AND POLITICIAN SLAIN BY GANGLAND GUNS

Believe Underworld Feared Exposure • In Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES, Cal., May 21.—An investigation which was expected to lead to sensational disclosures was underway here today in the murder of Herbert F. Spencer, 45, newspaperman, and Charles Crawford, 52, a prominent politician, presumably by gangsters fearing exposure.

Spencer died almost instantly with a bullet through his heart, shot by a gunman in the politician's private office.

Crawford lived for four hours while surgeons fought vainly for his life with operations and blood transfusions.

Police arrested a suspect a few minutes after Crawford's death but did not disclose his name.

When on May 21, the fifty million postage stamps, comprising the new issue to commemorate the Red Cross anniversary, are put on sale, they will bear for the first time the likeness of a living person. The design chosen by the Postal Department for the new stamp is the picture painted by Lawrence Wilbur for a Red Cross poster last autumn for which he used Miss Marie Bard, of Astoria, N. Y., as a model. Miss Bard, who is a professional artists' model, is a home girl when not posing for magazine illustrators and commercial artists.

age stamps are to be issued bearing the picture of one of New York's most celebrated artists' models. You have met her many times on the pages of the country's leading periodicals. She demonstrates ice boxes, soft drinks and other commodities from the vantage point of billboards. She is beautiful. Marie Bard, of Astoria, L. I. And she is just thrilled that she is to decorate your mail.

When Lawrence Wilbur was commissioned to paint a poster for the Red Cross last autumn, he decided that the model for such an important commission would have to be a model girl. Not that the artist doesn't think highly of the majority of the models used by the leading artists. But this time he wanted breeding, background, culture as well as breathtaking beauty. And so he sought himself of Miss Bard, who had been educated at the Drew Seminary for Young Women and who had sang Methodist hymns in the choir. When the painting was completed it showed Miss Bard as a sweet faced nurse, her hands spread in loving benediction over the globe, a mother to suffering humanity. It is this picture that the authorities are going to use for the new postage stamp.

Apart from the novelty of using the image of a professional artists' model on a postage stamp, this is the first time that the likeness of a living person has been used for such a purpose. Even the Lindbergh commemorative stamp showed not the aviator, but the "Spirit of St. Louis" winging its epochal way over the Atlantic. The artists of New York are delighted that such a signal honor should be paid to a professional artists' model, especially to a model so popular as Marie Bard. She doesn't smoke, nor does she drink. She helps keep house for her father, a tea and coffee merchant, and for her mother, who is a pharmacist. She is content to live in quarters over their store. She is a regular church attendant. And she hasn't found that her mode of living or her principles have in any way conflicted with her work in the studios.

Miss Bard has found, as have most models, that art, especially commercial art, is an exacting thing and that artists are concerned only with the picture and the pose, a picture that sometimes brings in a small fortune if the artist is famous. And it is only famous artists who can get a call on Marie Bard's services. She is in demand all the time, not only for the leading commercial artists, but by the leading magazine illustrators. She has learned the secret of holding the pose for hours, and says that at the conclusion of such a job few models have strength or the desire to even converse with the artist. All they want is to go somewhere and rest before they are off to the next job.

The new issue of stamps will go on sale May 21st. It is to commemorate the anniversary of the Red Cross and should help to make even an envelope containing a final statement more bearable.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

And I gave my heart to know wisdom, and to know madness and folly. I perceived that this also is vexation of spirit. For in much wisdom is much grief; and he that increaseth knowledge increaseth sorrow.—Ecclesiastes, 1, 17, 18.

AS TO PRIMARIES

There have been other decisions in line with the ruling by the federal court of appeals in New Orleans which says that a political party has a right to regulate its primary elections. The particular one just mentioned was the result of a complaint by a Negro that he was not allowed to vote in a Democratic primary election in Texas; but that is relatively incidental. We have an idea that decisions of the same tenor generally will prevail in places where the bench is properly avowed from political influence.

The important thing is the inclination of the court to recognize the private character of the political party as opposed to the public character of government machinery, and the consequent right of the party to manage its affairs without undue interference by law and the courts.

The states have, it is true, done violence to this idea wherever they have passed primary election laws to which parties have been forced to conform. In a rather concrete way, those laws are acts of tyranny. They hamper the right of people to advance candidates for office in any orderly way they desire to employ.

The ruling here cited and others of the same sort, tend to neutralize this abuse to an extent, by recognizing the primary as the successor of the convention and caucus system, and as its natural heir.

The decision by the New Orleans federal court is likewise something that properly disposed senate of the United States ought not to fail to recognize and consider. It involves a tolerably clear denial of an assumption by that body that it has a right to tell the people of the states how the nomination of candidates for place in the body, is to be carried out. It is true, this assumption is by indirection so far, but it is none the less real and usurpatory because it is exercised by appeal to a section of the constitution which is susceptible of use, but which never was intended to be interpreted as the upper house of congress has been interpreting it of late.

WINE FOR DIPLOMATS

An attempt to hijack the wine cellar of the Salvadorean legation in Washington has started anew the agitation to extend our experiment in national prohibition to the persons and premises of diplomatic guests. Senator Brookhart, a prohibitionist, cannot see "any sense in allowing these diplomats to transport liquor in a dry country." Senator Brookhart comes from the arid state of Iowa. Congressman Schafer, who is described in a press dispatch as an anti-prohibitionist, will move for a committee next session to determine "why law enforcement officers of the federal government are permitting foreign representatives to violate the eighteenth amendment." One can easily see how irritating it must be to a representative from the thirsty state of Wisconsin to know that the representative of a Central American republic can have what he wants to drink, when he wants it. What he can do about it is another matter.

The right of members of the diplomatic corps in Washington to possess and consume intoxicating beverages on their official premises is not seriously challenged. A fiction of international law extends to embassies and legations an extra territorial status; but even without that fiction, an ancient and generally accepted comity of nations withdraws the persons and property of foreign diplomats from the operation of the local laws of the country to which they are accredited. The exceptions to this immunity, which is necessary to enable the head of a foreign mission properly to perform his duties as such, are not pertinent to the dry enforcement issue.

Admitting the right of these representatives to have wine in their cellars, are they guilty of violating the prohibition amendment by transporting it from the port of entry to their premises? Senator Brookhart and Congressman Schafer take the literal view that they are. Constructively they are not. They can't get liquor into the cellars without transporting it "within the United States," any more than the sourdoughs can conveniently get it into the Canadian Yukon without crossing a few miles of the United States in Alaska. Stopping transportation would be equivalent to denying the right of possession, a step that would arouse natural resentment and apprehension abroad; for if a government can invade diplomatic immunities from one quarter it can from another.

We can pass sumptuary legislation to regulate our own lives if we want to; but we have no right to extend it to the personal representatives of foreign sovereigns, who have been received with the implied agreement that they will enjoy in their own embassies and legations the same privileges and immunities that would be accorded them by other civilized nations. Senators and congressmen should realize that common sense here conspires with good manners and suggests that we mind our own business.

MISTAKES OF LIFE

Judge McCormick of San Francisco has said that the fundamental mistakes of life are the following:

1. To attempt to set up your own standards of right and wrong.

2. To try and measure the enjoyment of others by your own.

3. To expect uniformity of opinions in this world.

4. To fail to make allowance for inexperience.

5. To endeavor to mold all dispositions alike.

6. To look for perfection in our own actions.

7. To worry ourselves and others about what cannot be remedied.

8. Not to help everybody—wherever, however and whenever we can.

9. To consider anything impossible that we ourselves cannot perceive.

10. To believe only what our finite minds can grasp.

11. Not to make allowance for the weakness of others.

12. To estimate by some outside quality, when it is that within which makes the man.

The members of the legislature unquestionably will be among those who will shout most loudly with pleasure when the body adjourns sine die.

Mr. Borah might get out quite an extensive pamphlet merely by enumerating the causes he has championed.

The temperature question never will be settled by intemperate vituperation pro and con.

Bo-Broadway

By JOSEPH VAN RAALTE

NEW YORK.—An enterprising chemist has perfected a process for investing book pages with a subtle fragrance—each perfume compounded to match the mood of the volume.

Which probably means that pretty soon, some day, our progressive publishers will be advertising Best Smellers.

George Jean Nathan (Aitch L. Menken's amusing little friend) speaking of an un-named playwright recently, said that in his, Nathan's opinion, the gentleman deserved the Pulitzer Prize for persistent mediocrity because for years "the fellow" had been shooting at the moon, with a putty-blower.

Which is no improvement on the Pastor's well-known and justly celebrated line:

He aims at the stars; but he shoots spittballs.

FRUITS OF FAME

The New York Board of Trade thinks that the customs of escorting Distinguished Visitors through the Broadway Canyon from the Battery to City Hall, amid a deluge of ticker-tape and torn telephone books, is "undignified" and they have petitioned O-B-e-Joyful Jimmie to put an end to the practice.

Here's hoping that Sir James vetoes the petition.

That Ticker Tape Spree from the Landin' Place to the Mayor's Nest has doubtless spurred many a low-gear soul to heroic achievement.

And where's the incentive to court fame if, after you've bared and bowed your bean for the laurel wreath, you can't have a waste basket emptied on your famous head?

The Old Newspaper Reporter was taken.

"Do you know," he said, "that four of the biggest 'stories' in history piled one on top of another in the course of three years?"

No. I didn't know it.

"Well, they did," he continued. "Beginnin' with 1912: Snodgrass dropped th' ball in th' World Series in Boston. Rosenthal was shot in New York. The Titanic was sunk on her maiden trip; an' th' Kaiser unleashed th' dachshunds of war."

"Ain't no newspaper work interesting," I said.

"Boy," he replied, "you dam-tootin'!"

NONE SO BLIND

Miss Ella Boole, whose labors as Head of the Women's Christian Temperance Union has done more to keep the likker racket in place than any other force on earth, made a speech the other day.

She has no desire, she said, to study Volstead Vereins as they exist today. Tammany Town's 32,000 Speaks do not exist, so far as she is concerned. What goes on in them she does not know. But she does remember the old-fashioned corner saloon.

"I have seen men lined up three-deep at the bar, waiting for drinks," she said, adding, that she cannot believe that modern speakeasies are any better or any worse.

I quite agree with Miss Ella that the three-deep line-up before the old mahogany was a trifle trying at times. But she'll have to admit herself, that when the bartender did finally get around to you, it was well worth waiting for.

Oh, Ella, Ella! If we could only get you to be reasonable!

—THE BIG LEAK—

ANARCHISM IN SPAIN SEEN AS COUNTERPART OF COMMUNISM

WASHINGTON, May 19.—Spain is one of the places where those who worry over the ultra radical tendency of the times undoubtedly have some real reason for their anxiety.

For 20 years, at least, a substantial substratum of old-fashioned anarchism has underlain anti-governmental activities there. It was a school of thought which was stronger under Alfonso than anywhere else in the world—not Communism of the Russian type, but hostility to any rulership whatever. Communism may have tinged it since the Moscow regime's establishment, but it is impossible that the earlier philosophy can have been absorbed by it completely.

It is surprising that it did not manifest itself sooner following Alfonso's departure. Probably its disciples were taken by surprise and required time to consolidate.

In one respect it rivals Communism—it is fully as anti-clerical. Recognition, however, that the Spanish church has been something quite distinct from a religious institution, should not be interpreted as hostility to Catholicism. Wholly independent of its spiritual function, it has been a vested interest and a most oppressive one.

It was estimated on reliable authority 20 years ago that even then it owned approximately 30 per cent of the national wealth. It engaged in many lines of business and industry, from small retailing to the operation at that time (I do not know whether this still continues) of the most important Spanish trans-oceanic steamship line. Being tax free, it naturally was a gravely disorganizing economic influence.

The development of sentiment adverse to Alfonso personally was to have been expected, both in itself and as a concomitant of the outbreak of anti-clericalism. King has been no such popular character as has been represented.

The king for him was limited to a small circle, but it was the circle which most freely expressed itself.

There was considerable individual liberty in Spain, but little of a political character. In 1908—as long ago as that—when I first visited the country, the government reign was so tight that I found myself stopped by a censorship which prevented me from conducting a telephone conversation in English or Madrid.

That I might be the more readily understood, I was required to speak Spanish or nothing, perhaps being more closely watched than the average person, since I was known to be there on newspaper business at a time of some disturbance.

Philosophical anarchism certainly is not strong enough to upset government in Spain, but it may make considerable trouble.

LOCUST INVASION MAY DAMAGE TREES BIOLOGISTS CLAIM

WOOSTER, O., May 21.—Serious damage to trees in some sections may result in the invasion of eastern Ohio by seventeen-year locusts, according to Wooster College biologists.

In young orchards in particular the damage may be extensive, according to Dr. Warren Spencer, professor of biology.

Twigs on small trees are expected to crack off under the weight of eggs laid at random by the millions of locusts he said.

Although the effects on large trees probably will not be permanent, the smaller ones will be seriously endangered, Dr. Spencer indicated.

Investigation at the college here and at the state experiment station has shown that the cicada, as it is known in the language of the biologist, rarely, if ever, stings.

The cicada, however, frequently gets the blame for stings inflicted by a wasp which is a parasite on the locust, Dr. Spencer said.

Why Gambier and Kenyon College have so long been a prey to the seventeen-year locusts was explained in the fact that the locusts prefer heavily-wooded areas.

Appearance of millions of locusts will mark the beginning of a "banquet" greater than they have ever known.

Even cats and dogs eat the locust but chickens, crows and pests thrive on them.

There will be plenty of locusts to eat, too, because a small army of men will be kept at work shoveling the pests into baskets and carrying them away to be burned.

Although the noise of the unwelcome invaders is terrific, the odor that accompanies them is said to be a greater nuisance.

With the rapid deforestation of the state, the locusts are finding Ohio less attractive, and, as a result, the family is a vanishing one and each brood grows smaller.

After spending seventeen years underground, the locust digs up to the surface in April and then in May or June emerges in pupa form.

Its first stop is at a convenient bush or tree. After a transformation known as metamorphosis, the locust pulls itself free of its pupal skin and emerges with creamy white wings. Not long afterward they are turned to gray.

BEAUTIFICATION TOUR HELD TUESDAY

Forty Greene County people took part in the annual tour of the home beautification group Tuesday.

The tour followed the program planned. E. R. Chadwick, Ohio State University, interestingly discussed "Landscaping a Farm Lawn," after which the group was asked to make suggestions concerning the lawn at the home of Mrs. Maude Peterson, Wilmington Pike.

Enroute to Rest Haven Park for luncheon, the group passed the home of Mrs. Ivy Neatherton, who is developing rock garden, and A. D. Kingrey, florist, north of Alpha.

After luncheon the group enjoyed the collection of plants at Engle & Sons, Florists. At three o'clock Mrs. E. N. Shoup was hostess to the group and discussed landscaping as she had efficiently developed it at her home.

The group then visited Mrs. Fred Hawker's where Mr. Chadwick gave helpful suggestions in the type of landscaping appropriate for that particular setting.

Mrs. R. L. Gowdy invited those who were interested to stop at her home on the Bellbrook Pike.

The tour was made possible by the cooperation of the county better homes committee and the county extension agents. Assistance was given by the Xenia Garden Club and the flower show committee.

ACCIDENTAL DEATH VERDICT RETURNED IN FATALITY PROBE

Death of Hilton D. Straw, 30, of 3780 Ault Park Road, Cincinnati, who was fatally injured when two autos collided head-on near Selma Wednesday morning, was termed accidental in a verdict announced Wednesday night by Coroner Theodore Schaefer, of Clark County, who investigated the accident.

Straw died instantly of a broken neck. Six other persons, including three women, suffered minor injuries.

The body of Straw, removed after the crash to the W. D. Sprague funeral parlors at South

Charleston, was shipped Thursday to Columbus, N. J., for funeral services and burial.

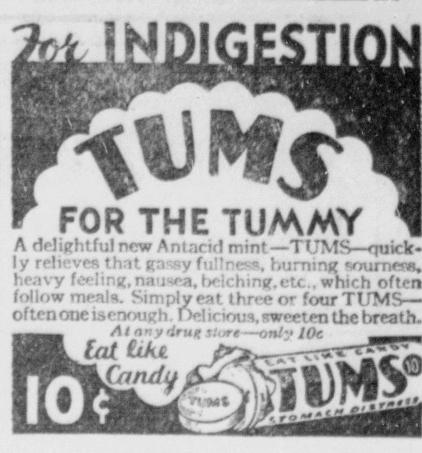

Straw, who was general manager of the J. R. Evans Leather Co., 811 Sycamore St., Cincinnati, is survived by his widow, Mrs. Marion Straw, and a son, Edmond.

The driver of the auto in which

Straw was riding was C. E. Becker, 2409 Grandview Ave., salesman for the same company, who suffered bruises in the accident. Becker, who left Cincinnati with Straw Wednesday morning on a business trip to Columbus, told authorities that the second auto skidded on the wet highway. He said he tried to avoid the collision but failed.

Popular Demand Makes Hollywood Go Legitimate

Elaborate Stage Shows Being Prepared in Film Capital to Accompany Movies All Over U.S.; Recognize Need of Flesh and Blood.

CECIL DE MILLE

MARION DAVIES

The novelty of talkies has ceased to be a source of wonder to the great God "Public" and Hollywood, always on the qui vive with its finger on the pulse of public sentiment, has been quick to see the advantage of varying the diet of pictures with a tempting stage presentation as a rare-bit. Fanchon & Marco now maintain in Hollywood a huge studio for preparing stage shows to be presented in movie houses all over the country. Many big producers, such as Cecil de Mille, are leaning toward the new idea and the recent Marion Davies film shown in New York, supported by an all star stage presentation proved such a big success that the new vogue is sure to be generally adopted.

By ALICE ALDEN
Something more than whisper the legitimate stage, as one theater after another went movie.

That is the trend of the present. Maybe we did used to be satisfied presentations in most of the field with a movie, a comic and a country's leading motion picture newsreel strip. But not any more. houses. And it is the answer to We want elaborate stage shows, Broadway that has been lamenting trained units of dancers in exquisite costumes and elaborate stage settings. We want fine orchestras with special effects and we want to see vaudeville and radio stars as well. And being the public that must be catered to, we get 'em. And this is why, out in Hollywood—of all places—Fanchon & Marco has just erected a giant studio to rehearse and prepare stage presentations. The shows are designed for motion picture palaces. Singers, dancers, sketches, all with lavish scenery and effects are simultaneously rehearsing in the great 50,000 square feet of modern studio that has become a symbol of the new stage trend. And Hollywood doesn't seem to mind even if the cinema owners do. For Hollywood knows that good pictures coupled with fine stage presentations will keep the box office working over time.

Other Signs of Times

There are other signs of the times too. Movie stars are going into the legitimate field. Stars are coming back to the stage, and artists whose fame has been confined to the screen are essaying parts on the boards. And so we find that United Artists, the company that is headed by Mary Pickford, Doug Fairbanks and Charlie Chaplin, has hired the clever Henry Duffy to put on the stage shows at the Mayan Theater in Los Angeles. Then there's Cecil de Mille who has an uncanny faculty of divining the future, so far as entertainment is concerned.

De Mille is known to be back of a "little theater" movement on the coast. Both De Mille and his brother, William, are products of the legitimate and so their views are important.

Show business today is big business, a huge industry. Pictures, radio, theater, vaudeville are all combined to give amusement and entertainment to the public. That Amos and Andy after having been an ether attraction and making a movie, should now be making personal appearances at the Paramount Theater in New York is just the symbol of the new combine. Gone is any thought of eminence. In union is strength, is a motto that applies particularly to the amusement field. And those who were wise enough to foresee this have amassed vast fortunes. One of them is Hiram Brown who heads Radio-Keith-Orpheum. He has co-ordinated vaudeville, movies and radio with amazing results and benefits to the public.

Extras For Big Film

And so it is that when a particularly strong attraction is booked into a movie house, the powers that be cast around for an extra elaborate stage attraction. For instance, the new Marion Davies film playing at the Capital Theater in New York is surrounded by a revival that includes Helen Kane of boob-doo fame, George Jessel who stars in movies, stage and radio and Vincent Lopez and his orchestra in a lavish presentation. Those are the type of names that one used to look for in a vaudeville bill line-up. Now we go to the movies to see our favorite star in the flesh as well as on the screen.

Fanchon and Marco, responsible for the new production studio in Hollywood, are preparing forty stage presentations for movie houses all over the country. Over 250 people are employed, exclusive of the performers. Costumes, sets, scenery, appointments, all are made right in the studio. Often there are over 600 girls rehearsing in the five huge rehearsal halls. And all this for that vast public that has a date at the movies several evenings a week, and has declared that talkies, however, are not enough for their money.

De Mille is known to be back of a "little theater" movement on the coast. Both De Mille and his brother, William, are products of the legitimate and so their views are important.

SPANK 'EM AND LEAVE 'EM

Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt Used Old-Fashioned Child Rearing Methods

Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt and her adopted daughter, Dorothy.

By RILLA SCHROEDER

WASHINGTON, May 21.—Spank 'em and leave 'em alone.

The old-fashioned rule of the hair brush with a modern leavening of common sense is the method employed by Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, former assistant attorney general of the United States in bringing up her adopted daughter, Dorothy.

Dorothy, a bright faced little lass of seven years was adopted by Mrs. Willebrandt five years ago. Her mother died leaving the youngster alone and Mrs. Willebrandt, then holding her high office, took the child and brought her to Washington afterwards legally adopting her.

A school teacher before she hung out her shingle as a lawyer, Mrs. Willebrandt was well acquainted with the problem with which she was confronted. And being an ex-schoolmarm, she had very definite ideas upon the mistakes usually made by mothers. She wanted above everything to teach little Dorothy to stand firmly upon her two small feet. Self-reliance (a trait which the energetic former Kansas farm girl possesses in abundance) is the quality she most admires.

Spanking Automatic

In the curriculum arranged for Dorothy there was no "kissing to make it well" when the two-year-old tumbled down the steps. The youngster learned that unless she was really hurt, crying did not bring "mother" running to her assistance. A hard lesson—Mrs. Willebrandt confesses it was equally hard for her—but one that has made the seven-year-old Dorothy a veritable Spartan.

The spankings automatically followed wrong doing. Mrs. Willebrandt believes in corporal punishment for tiny children. Dorothy is no longer turned over the knee (being all of seven) but in her baby days she was frequently.

Dorothy tried all the tricks usually employed by children upon their parents. She tried being naughty in front of company (the spankings were always behind closed doors) and failing that tried working on "mother's" tenderer sentiments.

Developing Her Character

Friends of Mrs. Willebrandt have asked if perhaps the mother by process of law might have been less "coldly intellectual" if Dorothy had been her own child. Mrs. Willebrandt does not believe so. She is convinced that it is a matter of character rather than accident of birth. Remembering her own childhood she believes it was her father's Spartan training that gave her the courage to go on in the face of the bitter criticism hurled at her head during her political career. Dorothy, she contends, is as dear to her as if she had been her own child and her concern for the development of the little one's character is the expression of her real maternal solicitude.

Mrs. Willebrandt tells the story of how the baby (guilty of one of the common errors of childhood) was taught to remake her own little bed in the middle of the night. Unaided she pulled and tugged at the mattress until she managed to turn it, and sheets and blankets were carried to the bathroom to be deposited by Dorothy herself in the clothes basket.

At three little Dorothy went to the grocery store a couple of blocks away from the apartment where Mrs. Willebrandt made her home. At four she made a trip to Chicago by herself (under, of course, the protection of the porter) and at five she was able to go downtown in Washington in the street car alone.

Diet Training

She knew at four how to summon a taxi to take her to her mother's office and was thoroughly at home two years previously in the restaurants of the capital. One of the first problems confronting her adopted mother was the problem of Dorothy's diet. The youngster was improperly nourished and it took several months of struggle before Mrs. Willebrandt could teach her that spinach, etc., MUST be eaten no matter how very badly a little girl yearned for ice cream. Now Dorothy can be trusted to go to restaurants by herself and order only the items on her very carefully supervised bill of fare. On her trip to Chicago she went alone to the dining car and ordered her own meals (the steward had been privately informed by Mrs. Willebrandt that ice cream was a dessert and not to be eaten in place of soup).

Know More Than Believed

Mrs. Willebrandt believes that children are as a rule more brilliant than their elders give them credit. And most emphatically she believes that they should not be excused of wrong doing on the grounds that they are children. From the first she contends, they should be made to feel that they are responsible human beings and as such accountable for their actions.

She does not believe in coddling or petting. Too many children, her experience as a teacher convinced her, are ruined by over-much so-called mother love. A child should be made to feel spiritually its mother's love and confidence. Praise for work well done in a measure is part of her program. But there should be no subtleties. The sense of achievement should be based only on something really achieved.

FORMER XENIAN IS CLAIMED BY DEATH

Mrs. Elizabeth Ann Carney, 76, wife of John Carney and former resident of Xenia, died at her home in St. Paris, O., Wednesday at 11:30 a.m. following a ten weeks' illness from a complication of diseases.

Mr. and Mrs. Carney resided here until twenty-three years ago when they moved to Springfield and later to St. Paris, where Mr. Carney is a section foreman for the D. T. and I Railroad. Mrs. Carney was a member of the M. E. Church at St. Paris.

Besides her husband she is survived by three children by a former marriage, Clark Dill, Bakersfield, Calif., Lee Dill and Mrs. Florence Cummins, Springfield, and two sons by her present marriage, Fred and Edward Carney, Springfield. Two sisters, Mrs. Belle Adams, Columbus, and Mrs. E. C. Oglesbee, Cedarville, also survive.

Funeral services will be held at the Carney home in St. Paris Saturday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock and burial will be made in Ferncliff Cemetery, Springfield.

Glamorous U. S. Cavalry Loses to Machinization

Tank "Combat Cars" to Eliminate 8,000 Horses; Modern War Machines Take Romance Out of Army; Heroes Will Be at Premium.

SOON TO BE A MEMORY

WASHINGTON, May 21.—With sured. The Great War proved, among other things, that cavalry was as obsolete as the bow and arrow, and since the cessation of hostilities the master minds have been planning and devising an arm to take its place.

Romance, Color To Go.

No more shall posterity read with pulsing pride of gallant charges on forlorn hopes, of the thunder of hoofs, the creaks of saddles and the jingle of sabres. The martial men of the future will go forth to war in oily overalls to the accompanying of grinding the cream of the German cavalry, gears and the fumes of gasoline, the eventual abolition of the horse. Simultaneously with General MacArthur's announcement the War Department asked bids on seven convertible tanks of the Christie type, recently tested with great success. They must weigh no less than fifteen tons and must make forty miles an hour on hard roads. Their fighting equipment will be a machine gun and a thirty-seven-millimeter caron each and the estimated cost will be $70,000 per car fully equipped.

Army officers hail the machinization program as the most advanced move toward the modernization of U. S. forces since the Morrow Board charted a definite airplane program. As an example of efficiency of motorized units, they point out that the 300-mile march from Fort Eustis in Virginia to Fort Bragg in North Carolina can be made in two days by trucks as against twenty-five by horses.

Horses At Premium.

But in extolling the virtues of machinization, the war lords lose sight of the fact that it was the glamour of cavalry that partly counteracted the horrors of war and gave the touch of romance that stirred the blood, instilling the dash of recklessness that made the good soldier. If Paul Revere had made his famous ride on a motorcycle the episode would now be in the limbo of forgotten things, or had Sheridan took that trip to Winchester in a flier, who'd have ever heard about it? Would the spectacle of Teddy Roosevelt riding up San Juan Hill in a Packard cause the pulse to beat any faster?

The answer to those questions is very probably in the negative.

SPORT SNAP SHOTS

FRAMED by Phil

The softball double-headers are piling up faster than they are being played off.

The Red Wing Co. of the National League seems to be getting the unluckiest break from the weather having played only one game out of five scheduled contests the first round.

The Red Wings were particularly unfortunate when their long-awaited game with the Lang Chevrolets was called off Wednesday because, the commission said the grounds were too wet.

Langs did not especially mind the postponement in view of the fact the champions would have been seriously crippled for all important National League struggle. Bill Baxley, we are told, was rather elated over the cancellation as he only had eight players available.

The Red Wings now face the prospect of playing four double-headers during the second round with the Graham Paints, Downtown Country Club, Criterion and Langs in the order named.

All of the other National League teams have played at least three games but all must take part in at least one double-header the next round.

The weather has been kind to the Krippendorff-Dittmann Co., defending champions in the American League. This team has already participated in six games, winning four; losing one and tying one. Krippendorff has been a party to the only two double-headers staged this season, winning both halves of a twin bill with the All-Stars and dividing a bar-gain attraction with St. Bridget Central High, lest we forget, has also been able to play only one game, losing it to Krippendorff, 8 to 4.

Paintersville also stopped the consecutive hitting streak of Anderson, slugging third baseman for Krippendorff, who is a southpaw swinger. Anderson made eight straight hits, however, before being retired on an infield fly. He rapped out seven straight binges in a double-header with the All-Stars and ran the string to eight when he hit a four-bagger on his first time at bat in the opening game of the double-header with St. Bridget. After that he went hitless the remainder of the first game and also the second.

Wood's Barbers have apparently turned over a new leaf, as the Downtowners have good reason to know. After being swamped by Langs and the Red Wings, the Barbers braced and beat the D. T. C. Club. With a little more improvement on defense, the team may yet go places. The Barbers are slugging at a .301 clip one percentage point better than Langs.

Allen Mendenhall, third baseman for Woods, is trying hard to qualify as the best all-round third-sacker in either league. A natural southpaw batter, Mendenhall hits the ball on the nose all the time and is on a par and possibly superior to "Bulldog" Smith at fielding his position. Pitchers dread to see him come to bat.

CENTRAL HIGH WILL MEET ALL-STARS

Two American League softball teams that have not won a game this season will each have a chance to win two league contests Thursday night.

Central High School's "Buccaneers" will face the All-Stars in a double-header at Cox Field, the twin bill having been postponed from last Tuesday night.

The Bucs have lost the only game they have played and the All-Stars recently lost the only two games in which they have participated, both to Krippendorff, which handed Central High its lone defeat.

POMONA GRANGES MEET NEXT WEEK

Pomona Granges of Greene and Montgomery Counties will meet with Spring Valley Grange, Wednesday, May 27. Matters of county-wide importance will be discussed during the morning session which opens at 10:30 o'clock. Dinner will be served at 12 o'clock noon.

Montgomery County Pomona Grange will present an exchange program with Green County Grange at 1:30 o'clock. A large attendance from both counties is expected at the meeting.

BOOK JEFFERSON

Convalescing from a 11 to 0 shutout defeat inflicted by the Schramm Jewelers of Wilmington last Sunday, the Jamestown Independents hope to partly redeem themselves next Sunday afternoon in a game at Jamestown with Jefferson, an independent nine which last year defeated the Jewelers. The Independents experienced an off day at bat and in the field against the Wilmington team, making only three hits and committing errors galore.

N. Y. STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, May 21.—The copper, utility, and steel stocks showed the effects of persistent selling pressure in the early trading today, and their steady decline to lower price levels unsettled the market. A three-point break in Loew's was accompanied by further losses in Fox Film, Paramount and Radio-Keith, all of which, fell away to the year's lowest prices. Heavy selling of Anaconda and other copper charges followed reports of a new drop in copper prices to 83 cents a pound, the lowest price in the history of the red metal. Special points of weakness were Vanadium Steel, American Telephone and Telegraph, Western Union and Consolidated Gas, which have been making their hits count.

Air Broadcast Plans Are "Up In Air" Due To Weather

BY MILDRED MASON

ELABORATE preparations for the broadcast of air maneuvers over New York City Friday night and Saturday had been made but because of adverse weather conditions holding up the planes nothing definite can be announced now concerning the broadcast.

Original plans were to broadcast the maneuvers Friday night at 10 o'clock when the planes started from Roosevelt Field, No. 1, Long Island. They were to proceed to Freeport, L. I., then to Coney Island turning to the northwest corner of Governor's Island. From Governor's Island they were to proceed to Central Park, then to Harlem, then to Port Morris. From Port Morris they were to turn back across Manhattan Island to Governor's Island and Roosevelt Field, taking about thirty minutes for the attack.

The broadcast of these events was to be carried over a coast-to-coast network of the National Broadcasting Co., so if you listen in on your radios, no doubt you will hear just when the broadcast will take place.

BIG SISTER—A Ruse That Worked

The Theater

Samuel Goldwyn has now joined the list of producers scouring the country for new talent for pictures. During the last few days, long-term contracts have been signed with a number of these youngsters.

J. W. Crosby is now starting out on a cross-country tour to visit stock companies, dramatic and music schools and little theaters in every major city to look for new talent.

Among beginners signed by Goldwyn are Florence Britton, San Francisco debutante, who played first with Ronald Colman in "The Devil to Pay"; Betty Grable, seventeen-year-old St. Louis dancer who was in "Whoopee"; Shirley wealthy young lumber dealer, in Los Angeles. Miss Eaton is a member of the Eaton sisters dance trio.

His Fox contract at an end John Garrick, who played in "Just Imagine," will go to Pathé to play the romantic lead opposite Helen Twelvetrees in "Gangster's Wife." Tay Garnett will direct. Garrick's last picture for Fox was "Always Goodbye."

Fashion heretics may take comfort from the fact that Pola Negri has worn the same style of hat for ten years—a closely woven turban—Henry Hobart has turned in his resignation as association producer at RKO. He made fourteen pictures in fifteen months and declares he needs a rest—Fay Wray has gone blonde for the Ronald Colman picture.

The girls will first be given bit parts or loaned to other studios for parts that will help give them experience. Crosby will visit El Paso, San Antonio, Dallas, Fort Worth, Houston, New Orleans, Louisville, Lexington, Cincinnati, Columbus, Cleveland, Chicago, Minneapolis, St. Paul, Denver, Salt Lake City, Kansas City, St. Louis and Indianapolis in his search for talent.

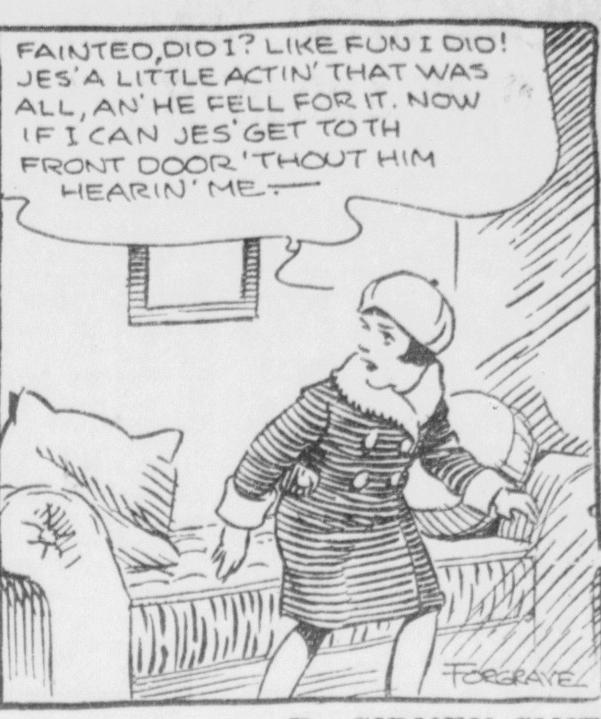

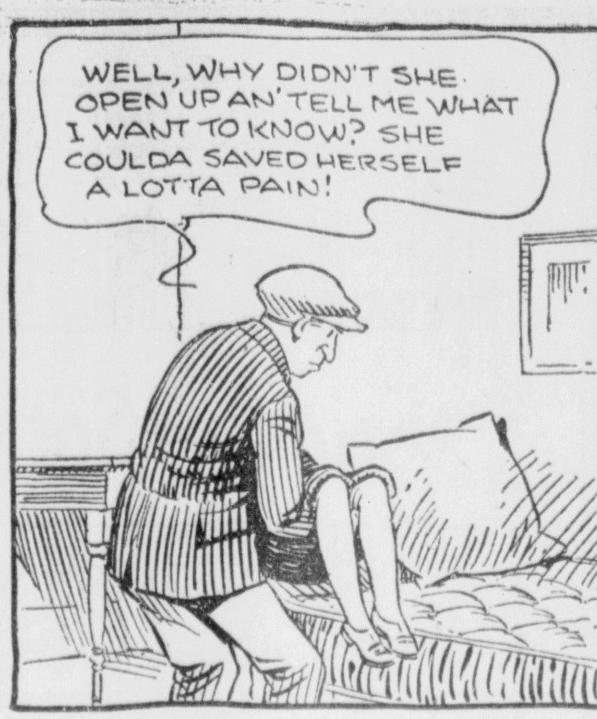

Next in line for Joan Crawford will be a talkie version of Edward Knoblock's play, "The Mirage." Considerable modernization will have to be made, as the play is many years old. In the meanwhile Joan is trying to be philosophical about the delay of her European trip. After seeing a preview of "This Modern World," Metro decided to make additional scenes, which will take three weeks or more. It is possible Joan and Doug Fairbanks will not get to make the trip at all.

THIEVES STEAL SHRUBBERY AT PARK AND DESTROY PROPERTY

Thieves and vandals who destroy property and steal shrubbery in Shawnee Park drew the scorn of park officials and Xenians interested in the park Thursday.

C. E. Arbogast, president of the Xenia Recreation Association, which controls the park, was promised the cooperation of police Wednesday in an effort to capture thieves who have taken choice shrubbery from the park.

If apprehended they will be prosecuted by the association, Mr. Arbogast said. The report followed the theft of valuable full-blooming spirea bushes from near the comfort station in the park recently.

Because the park is dependent upon charity, maintained by donations alone, the association has no money with which to replace the stolen shrubbery now. Instead it will be necessary to re-set remaining bushes, thinning out the shrubbery, in order to cover the vacant places left by the vandals.

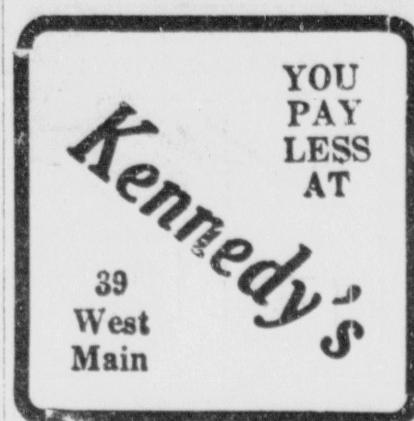

Mr. Arbogast reveals that vandals recently have punctured the wire glass in the door of the comfort station and have unscrewed, removed and thrown away electric switch boxes from the pavilion.

Assistance of the Xenia Garden Club and civic organizations, private donations and various types of "benefits" give the association a limited sum with which to maintain and beautify the park, association officials point out.

Out of these funds a caretaker is maintained from 1 p.m. to 7 p.m. and inability to provide park police leaves the park unprotected during other hours. Since the park provides a delightful outdoor recreational spot for Xenians and an attractive location for picnics, outings or public gatherings, the association believes most Xenians appreciate the advantages it affords and are shocked by the acts of vandalism reported.

Boy Scout officials say that recently heavy wooden shutters bar-
